

FIFTY-FOUR INCORRIGIBLES CLUB AND STONE TEACHERS AND THEN TAKE TO HILLS

Wholesale Stampede Follows Plot To Escape
But Forty-Eight Juveniles Are Rounded
Up By Armed Instructor on Horseback
After Hard Chase—Three Others Caught.

THREE FUGITIVES AT LARGE

ACTING on a preconcerted signal yesterday afternoon, fifty-four inmates of the Boys' Industrial School at Waialeale escaped from the institution into the mountainous country back of the school, after attacking two of the teachers and intimidating the matron.

Forty-eight of the juvenile mutineers were overtaken on the mountain top by an armed teacher, mounted on a horse, and after an exciting chase were rounded up and driven back to the school at the point of the gun.

Six of the more desperate characters who had been shackled in order to keep them from running away, ran to the blacksmith's shop, following the general exodus, and after knocking off each other's shackles, also fled.

Of these six, three were captured by a Japanese farmer whose premises they had visited, and who held them until the police arrived and took them back to the school.

Three Still At Large

The remaining three escapes are still at large but are being watched for at every point between Waialeale and Honolulu, telephone advice notifying the police of the various districts to be on the lookout for the boys, having been sent out.

Two police officers were sent from Honolulu to Waialeale yesterday afternoon, at the urgent request of Superintendent H. M. Tucker of the industrial school, and late last night they returned to town having in custody two of the ringleaders of the outbreak, who were lodged in jail for the night.

The trouble started before noon when one of the big boys, David Lelele, a husky youth of nearly twenty years, applied an offensive epithet to John Thennes, one of the teachers. The offender was taken to J. M. Johnson, the teacher in charge of the school in the absence of Principal Tucker, who gave him a dressing down with a strap, in order to teach him to be more guarded in his remarks to his superiors in future.

Trouble Renewed After Lunch

It evidently was intended that this remark by Lelele should precipitate trouble between the teachers and the boys, then and there. It failed to do so, however, but the matter was revived a short time later when Thennes was taking the boys from the dining hall, following lunch, to the playground.

Arriving at the playground, Lelele started an argument with Thennes, exclaiming that he was a stinker, or words to that effect, to have taken him to Johnson, and adding that he wouldn't have done so but for the fact that he was shackled and therefore not in a position to take his own part.

Thennes told the fellow to keep quiet but this he refused to do, at the same time striking a threatening attitude. Thennes then prepared to defend himself against Lelele's threatened onslaught and was slugged from behind by another youth, believed to have been George Kahapu, and who is between nineteen and twenty years old.

The blow was a hard one and staggered Thennes for the moment. The crowd of boys then surrounded the teacher and the two boys concerned in the disturbance, armed with clubs which they took from every conceivable hiding place around the playground and which evidently had been laid away for the occasion. Other mutineers of war in the shape of handy rocks also were seized by the boys. The clubs were of all sizes and shapes and included horse filled with sand, and some loaded sticks.

Surrounding the central figures on the playground the attitude of the boys became more offensive and threatening and every now and again a surreptitious whack would be taken at Thennes.

Johnson, hearing the disturbance, rushed from the dining hall to the playground, and his coming was greeted by a volley of stones, some of which took painful effect.

He had no sooner reached the crowd of boys and started to try and restore order than one big chap armed with a rock bled him stand where he was and not move unless he wanted to get hurt. Instead of complying with request Johnson ran over to Principal Tucker's house and breaking open a desk took therefrom a loaded revolver and returned to the playground.

Just as the boys saw that Johnson refused to be bluffed and had gone on an errand which they knew boded no pleasant consequences, they broke from the school premises at a run and headed for the mountainside, going up a trail a little on the Kahuku side of the school.

Forty-Eight Boys Stampede

Forty-eight boys took part in the stampede, those left on the playground being six boys whose feet were shackled, and the smaller inmates of the school. These boys were bravely taken charge of by the matron, Mrs. Harriet L. Kearns, who ordered them all into the main class room.

In the meanwhile Johnson and the five other teachers of the school had gone in pursuit of the other boys, leaving Mrs. Kearns alone in charge of one hundred excited boys in a very evil mood, including six of the worst characters in the institution whose legs were shackled.

No sooner were the boys placed in the class room when trouble started. One of the boys wearing shackles approached the matron and threatened to strike her, some of the other boys

Waialeale, and who said that he would keep watch and ward over the boys until the arrival of a police officer or representative of the school.

These three boys were brought to Waialeale and lodged in the school at about a quarter to ten o'clock last night, being marched along the road by James K. Kunoa of the school and Police Officer J. H. Hall, both of whom were mounted.

The boys caught at Okasaki's place were Joe Costa, Joe Posso and David Hama.

Principal H. M. Tucker came to Honolulu on business on Saturday night and was notified by telephone of the mutiny at his school in the course of yesterday afternoon. P. E. Steere, who was with him when the news came over the wire, placed his automobile at Tucker's disposal and the party left town for Waialeale about five o'clock, taking with them Police Officers David Lubi and Robert Akoe.

Principal Tucker arrived at the school on Sunday morning and found the entire company of the school confined in the main classroom, the doors of which were strongly guarded, for the boys were evidently in an ugly mood.

Tucker went in among them and started to sift matters in an effort to find out who the ringleaders were and what was the reason for the outbreak.

At first it was hard work eliciting any information at all, but modified third degree methods, with which threats and cajolery were judiciously commingled, had the desired effect and it wasn't long before the principal was in possession of considerable of the information which he was seeking.

He learned that the outbreak was a carefully premeditated affair, and that the abuse of Teacher Thennes by David Lelele was to be the signal for a general uprising in which concealed clubs and rocks were to be seized, the teachers and guards beaten and overpowered, if they made any resistance, and tracks made for the mountains, where the boys expected to remain in hiding until this morning, when they planned to head for Honolulu.

David Lelele and George Kahapu were found to be the organizers and ringleaders of the plot, and while they were with the rest of the boys in the lighted class room last night, Principal Tucker stepped outside, and a word was relayed and immediately after entered the room with two policemen in attendance, to whom he turned over the two boys, who were handcuffed in the presence of every boy in the room and then taken out to the night.

Brought To Honolulu

A little later on Lelele and Kahapu were placed in an automobile in the custody of the two police officers and brought to Honolulu, arriving at the police station shortly before midnight.

Principal Tucker will continue his investigation of the outbreak this morning and it is probable that a number of other boys will be brought to town for punishment.

David Lelele has escaped from the school on several former occasions and is regarded as an incorrigible. He has been given every possible chance to make good by Mr. Tucker, but despite this has persisted in making continual trouble.

Kahapu has been acting as a lion at the school for some time past and in selecting him for their leader the boys showed good generalship, for not only was he less likely to be suspected, but having once got him in their power they were in a position practically to demand the granting of any favors which they might desire. The young man has hitherto borne a good record and was shortly to have been released.

The boys also showed foresight in planning their outbreak on a day when the principal should be absent from school, and the resistance likely to be offered, thereby considerably diminished.

Mr. Tucker stated last night that the cases of the ringleaders probably would be dealt with in the police court as well as in the juvenile division of the court.

About two weeks ago eight of the boys broke away from the school and were captured some time later by W. H. Hall, some at Waialeale and the remainder in a gulch near Schofield Barracks. The six shackled boys who figured in yesterday's escapade were members of this gang.

Shackles of Light Steel. The shackles used at the industrial school are light steel affairs and fit round the ankles, being connected by a chain, their object being to hinder the progress of boys who have in the past displayed a tendency to revert.

H. M. Tucker has been principal of the industrial school for the past five years. Mrs. Kearns has held the position of matron for the last three months.

Waialeale is situated between the Paupaka homesteads and Kahuku, the school premises being situated between the mountains and the sea, and about a quarter of a mile distant from either. The present attendance at the school is about 150. On the school grounds are a dairy with twenty-five cows, a blacksmith's shop and several other utilities which greatly assist in the economic conduct of the school.

Cases are committed from the juvenile court to the industrial school. They are what is known as minority cases, that is, the boys may be detained in the institution for the period of their minority, if considered desirable. The period of residence at Waialeale varies with the principal. It may be ten weeks or it may be five years, depending entirely on the way in which a boy embraces the opportunity offered him to make good. When a boy has shown that he intends to act rightly in the future, he is released on parole.

Tendency To Escape Increases. Of late there seems to have been an increasing tendency to escape from the school. Despite this ever prevalent condition, the fact remains that out of the 200 boys who have escaped from the institution, in the course of the past five years, only one boy is today at large, and he succeeded in making connections with a sailing ship bound for San Francisco.

Lelele and Kahapu said last night that the reason they escaped from the institution was that they didn't get enough to eat. Principal Tucker made strenuous declaration that this complaint is utterly unfounded, as did Matron Kearns.

Matron Kearns called the arrival of the news with extreme pleasure and related to them the circumstance of the escape of the shackled six. She said that she had been racked with apprehension ever since they had fled lest the remainder of the boys should combine and effect their escape also. By dint of close watching and cool reasoning here and there, however, she had been able to prevent this added calamity.

No sooner had the teachers and guards returned from the mountain than they set out on a fresh hunt, their quarry being the six youths who had escaped from the custody of Mrs. Kearns.

Hardly had they started, however, when a telephone message was received at the school that three of the missing boys had been captured by a Japanese named Okasaki, who runs a small farm a few miles on the Waialeale side of LONDON, November 22.—The position being maintained by Greece, in view of the straits of the Serbians, has become intolerable to the Entente Powers, and according to despatches from Athens, a peremptory demand has been made upon Premier Skoufodis either to definitely align Greece with the Serbians for the fulfillment of her treaty obligations or proceed at once with the demobilization of the Greek army.

Demands have been made upon the Greek premier to announce what he expects to remain in hiding until this morning, when they planned to head for Honolulu.

MUNITION PLANTS TO BE PROTECTED

Government Will Take Drastic
Steps To Uproot Plots
Against These Factories

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
WASHINGTON, November 22.—The patience of the United States in regard to the long succession of fires and explosions in the factories at work in the filling of war orders and in the constantly recurring troubles that these manufacturers are having with their labor, appears to be at an end and the whole force of the government is to be employed in running down and prosecuting those responsible for the various efforts to hamper legitimate American industries.

The cases of fires without explainable cause and the frequency of the explosions and the discovered attempts at factory destruction are so many and happen so invariably to concerns at work on war orders that the conviction amounts almost to a certainty that a widespread conspiracy is being worked out by some whose object is to prevent the uninterrupted export of supplies for the belligerent nations able to secure them.

Yesterday, Attorney General Gregory issued an official announcement of the intent of the United States to employ all the resources at its command for the apprehending and punishing of the guilty of the attempts to destroy factories, instigating the various labor disturbances or doing any other act of violence against any American industry.

The attorney general also calls upon the officials of the various States to exercise the utmost vigilance in punishing the perpetrators of acts against American industries against which the federal statutes may not apply.

WASHINGTON, November 22.—The Mexican army here, officially representing Carranza, yesterday issued a statement, yesterday that the provisional government of Mexico is taking steps to protect future investors in Mexico and is also taking steps to handle the saloon situation in the Mexican capital.

The provisional government, expecting a resumption of speculative activity in Mexican oil as soon as the eastern coast States are thoroughly pacified, is prepared to safeguard the interests of the investing public and will issue governmental reports of the various properties being developed that will protect the public against wildcats and fake oil corporations.

The saloons of the City of Mexico have now all been taken over for control by the civic government the step marking the fact that the fear of further disturbances in the capital is over. The saloons are to be strictly controlled, however, and the number of licensed places will be limited.

PETROGRAD, November 22.—While there have been no official confirmations of the reports circulated regarding the activities of the army which it is known has been concentrated at Odessa for use in the Balkans, it has been stated that a portion of the army has been landed on the Bulgarian coast near Varna and another report announcing the arrival of a Russian force with guns on the Bulgarian side of the Danube, close to the Rumanian frontier, it appears evident from an official statement yesterday that the army is soon to move. The official statement announces that the army, accompanied by his heir, the Crown Prince Alexis, reviewed the Odessa army yesterday morning, leaving the Black Sea port in the evening again for the north.

STANDARD OIL HEAD IN DANGER OF BOMB

Attempt To Assassinate John D.
Archbold Is Made At His
Tarrytown Home

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
TARRYTOWN-On-The-Hudson, New York, November 22.—What was evidently an attempt to assassinate John D. Archbold was frustrated yesterday by the accidental discovery of the bomb with which it was expected to kill him. The bomb was skillfully concealed in a rut in the main roadway of the Archbold estate, over which the capitalist was expected in his automobile within a few minutes.

The infernal machine was made up of four sticks of dynamite, with primer and cap so arranged that the slightest impact would have exploded it.

Mr. Archbold is president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and a close associate of as well as a neighbor of John D. Rockefeller. In view of the attempt upon his life and the possibility that the blow aimed at him might have been intended as against the Standard Oil, a large force of special guards were at once placed around the Rockefeller home, while all approaches to it were searched for more bombs. The case leading to Mr. Rockefeller's residence was patrolled last night for three miles on all sides.

I. W. W. TO AVENGE HILLSTROM'S DEATH

Funeral of Executed Murderer Is Occasion For Red-Banner
Demonstrations

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
SALT LAKE CITY, November 22.—The State of Utah will have occasion to remember well the day on which the executioners shot Joe Hillstrom, declared one of the orators in the funeral services held over the body of the executed murderer, Joseph Hillstrom, yesterday.

There were several speakers, each of whom condemned the execution and denounced Governor Spry and other state officials, but the services included no religious exercises whatever.

The pall bearers were girls, six of them, wearing red sashes, the colors of the I. W. W., over white dresses. One of the six pall bearers was the sweetheart of Hillstrom.

The body was shipped to Chicago where it will be taken in charge by William D. Haywood, general organizer of the I. W. W. A great demonstration is to be made when the body is paraded through the streets of Chicago on Thursday for burial.

Yesterday afternoon in Seattle a body of four hundred I. W. W. members, with banners, paraded the streets carrying an empty coffin, on which was printed the name "Hillstrom."

A mass meeting was held last night, at which the execution of Hillstrom was denounced as the culmination of a capitalist plot against the leader of workmen. The police were present at the meeting in force, but there were no disorders.

ITALIANS ARE REDUCING GORITZA FORTIFICATIONS

Especially Heavy Guns Brought Up To Reduce Works

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
ROME, November 22.—The Austrian positions at Gorizia continue to be bombarded and it is usually reported that the fortifications have been practically demolished, the Italians having brought up some especially heavy guns to reduce the works. The fall of this position is near at hand.

On Saturday and yesterday the Italians successfully attacked the line northwest of Osava and the infantry has obtained a strong foothold on the summit of Mount San Michele.

On the front and other fronts the fighting is confined to artillery duels.

MONASTIR IS DESTINED TO BE DECISIVE POINT

Franco-British Relief Expedition
Is Moving On Slowly Against
Bulgars, Who, In Central Serbia,
Met With Crushing Defeat

PARIS, November 22.—While the condition of the Serbians is extremely serious, the situation appears to be not so desperate as the reports of the past three days have indicated. The Austro-German advance is proceeding very slowly and every foot gained is costing the Teutons a tremendous price, so heavy a toll of life that unless reinforcements are despatched from either Austria or Germany the succession of Teuton victories will wear the army out.

The Serbs continue to hold Monastir and a British force has reached that city, sufficient, it is believed, to hold the Bulgarians in check until other reinforcements can arrive.

Monastir Last Stand. The fighting for this city is expected to be severe, as its fall will drive the Serbians and the Allies out of this particular section of Macedonia and compel a retreat into Greece. The Teutons, according to despatches from Bucharest, are attaching great importance to this campaign and von Mackensen is expected to arrive before Monastir within a week to personally direct the fighting. He will bring German reinforcements for the Bulgars.

In Central Serbia, in the Nish district, where a force of Serbians are holding out, the Bulgarians have been defeated again in a battle at Leskovatz which has raged for several days. An announcement of this Serbian victory was made yesterday by the Serbian legation here, which states that the Bulgarian losses were enormous, many regiments being completely wiped out. The Serbians are pursuing the routed invaders, taking up prisoners.

Franco-British Advancing. The British and French are advancing as rapidly as the inclement weather will permit, clearing the railroad of Bulgarians and repairing the line as they proceed north. It is evident that one object of this expedition is to open the way for another force to follow. As yet the German reinforcements for the Bulgarians facing the Anglo-French have not arrived and the Bulgarians are making only a perfunctory stand.

The Montenegrin consulate here announced that a portion of the North Serbian army has retreated into Montenegro and joined Montenegrins at the Lim River, where they are strongly entrenched. This line was attacked heavily on Friday, but then assault was repulsed.

The main Serbian army is now making its stand on the Kosovo plateau. At the head of this force, fighting in the front line, is the Serbian king, who has sworn not to live if his country is taken from him and his people.

AUSTRO-GERMAN LOSS HEAVY
BERLIN, November 22.—Austro-Germans have captured the important Serbian city of Novibazar, in Western Serbia, within thirty miles of the Montenegrin border, and the advance is proceeding. In the fall of Novibazar, 1400 prisoners and a quantity of supplies were taken.

The Tagelhalt, reviewing the Serbian campaign yesterday, announced that the Serbians are still fighting desperately, despite the fact that the Austro-Germans have taken a total of fifty thousand prisoners and nearly five hundred guns.

While the progress of the campaign is steady and the outcome sure, the Austro-German losses have been very heavy, accountable for by the difficult nature of the country through which the Serbians have been fighting on their retreats.

CHARLTON IS RELEASED FROM ITALIAN PRISON

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
COMO, Italy, November 22.—Porter Charlton, the young American convicted a few weeks ago of the murder of his bride, while visiting Lake Como on their honeymoon trip, was released from prison yesterday, having completed the term to which he was sentenced. The sentence was for imprisonment for two years, but as Italian law inflicts from the sentence the period spent in jail while awaiting trial, the actual time served by Charlton is less than two months. He was convicted of "unpremeditated murder," the maximum sentence for which is five years.
